08:57:29 From Tina's iPhone : Yes they are delicious

08:58:01 From David Covington : Is that Rep. Orwall?!

08:58:27 From Paul Galdys, RI International : Yes Meighan!

08:58:47 From Leo Petrilli : Happy Friday from Canada. I am really looking forward to this one.

08:59:18 From Paul Galdys, RI International : Love seeing Dequincy in the Jam today!

08:59:45 From Lisas : Hi Dequincy!!!

09:00:01 From DeQuincy Lezine : Thanks Paul. Looking forward to it.

09:00:06 From Christine Yu Moutier (she/her) : I'm SO excited to be here with you all, such an amazing group. Thank you thank you for all you are doing to support others. Today we'll focus on our own colleagues and selves. Pls don't be shy in sharing your ideas and experiences.

09:07:03 From Karen Jones : For the best view of the translators and speakers, please choose speaker view. That shows only the spotlighted persons.

09:07:28 From Karen Jones : To see the captions, please choose "Show Subtitles"

09:13:51 From Leo Petrilli : 23 % of adults using substances (and younger folks too) - COVID has created the need for another and tier to MASLOWs hierarchy. OR, maybe a new one be created on how the pandemic has impacted each level. With those of us who have been down this dark road adding valuable inputs.

09:16:27 From Lisas : This is such important information.

09:17:09 From David Covington : Just renewed my license as an LPC and the process included asking about behavioral health treatment over the past two years

09:18:17 From Sarah Blanka OBH : I noticed that also David and noticed that it was on the same page as disclosing arrests, malpractice, etc. Context leads one to believe that seeking treatment is a professional deficit that the board needs to review and consider seriously.

09:18:32 From David Covington : Exactly Sarah!

09:19:02 From Lisas : Same in Social Work licensing documentation!!

09:19:41 From Idaho - Betsy Hammar : Idaho medical licenses include a question for mental health. It now includes a check box that allows the applicant to indicate if the condition is being successfully treated.

09:20:54 From Lisas : Peer support among colleagues.

09:21:45 From Peter Brown : What chance might there be for Mental Health First Aid among professionals?

09:22:03 From Sarah Blanka OBH : Peer Support is a formal system used often throughout law enforcement to provide a specific type of support and validation to other officers. Wish it was more commonly considered for healthcare professionals

09:23:05 From Lisas : WOWOWOWWOW!!!!

09:23:20 From Mental Health America of Virginia : Can we get a copy of this presentation to pass along to our peers?

09:23:21 From David Covington : We teed up the 100th episode today and "the challenge," getting to care that feels like care... what a great way to start that conversation with such a thoughtful and compassionate discussion

09:23:25 From Tenasha Hildebrand : I agree, Sarah. I think there's an inherent assumption that behavioral health professionals know how to do this in a peer capacity. It is awkward at best and we could learn from our first responders on how to do this better.

09:23:36 From Brian Frejo : Great presentation CHristine! Thank you so much for sharing

09:23:59 From David Covington : Not just AFSP's... America's BH Chief Medical Officer :) THANK YOU CHRISTINE! And, so appreciate your sharing your own lived exp

09:24:01 From Lisas : Such and important presentation!!!! Timely!

09:24:43 From Sarah Blanka OBH : Thank you for your words of wisdom and openness to being vulnerable about your own journey!

09:24:48 From Nicole Coleman- Idaho 988 : great presentation, specially during suicide prevention month. helpers need help too.

09:24:49 From David Covington : Why are we so punitive to those seeking help?!

09:24:55 From Lisas : Great questions Janel!!!

09:25:01 From Laurel Stine, AFSP (she/her) : Christine - Always, fantastic! Thanks for sharing your expertise with the Jam today.

09:25:39 From Amy B : Or that recovery is possible?

09:26:31 From David Covington : So appreciate The Black Mental Wellness Lounge – Brandon Johnson interviews Twitter @JanelCabbage

09:27:04 From David Covington : And check out our next RoundTable participant at <https://www.drjessigold.com/>

09:28:10 From Leo Petrilli : Thank you Janel, I agree. Secrets keep us sick.

09:28:50 From Carly Sandoval : self-care can't exist without the idea of community-care, love that you are talking about this Janel!

09:29:05 From Tami Mark : Is mental illness viewed as a signal that individuals will not be productive and will be difficult? How do we counter that stigma?

09:29:35 From Janel Cabbage : Sorry for going over time!

09:30:03 From David Covington : No no - it was great Janel! You're talking about grace and care in our administration... SO IMPORTANT!

09:30:05 From Meighan Haupt : Your reflections were right on! Thank you so much.

09:30:18 From Susan Robinson : Excellent touch points Janel - thank you

09:30:27 From Christine Yu Moutier (she/her) : Not at all, Janel- I think I went over lol

09:30:41 From Janel Cabbage : It's a lively dialogue!

09:30:58 From David Covington : It's the Crisis Jam way ;)

09:31:10 From Dawn Peel : I hope that telehealth options will expand the ability for BH professionals to seek treatment if they want to maintain their privacy within their local practitioner groups.

09:31:15 From Susan Robinson : Important timely warrants time for focus...

09:31:30 From Megan McDaniel (She/Her) : Experiences of stigma and shame is also super common in psychologists! One of my fave articles on positive and negative experiences of folks with lived experience gives me hope for the field but highlights how much more work there is to do:
<https://doi.org/10.31234/osf.io/ksnfd>

09:31:58 From Janel Cabbage : Also just because we've always done something one way in our system and we were able to endure it, doesn't mean we have to continue doing it that way. We should always be looking for opportunities to improve experiences for us and those who will come after us

09:33:05 From Steve Hamerdinger : For deaf clinicians, telehealth is the only way we can maintain our privacy, but insurance practices make it so hard. We forego care we personally need because there is no way to get care in a way that is safe.

09:33:06 From Meighan Haupt : We are all human - it is not us and them.

09:33:20 From Tenasha Hildebrand : And if we think about how many mass shootings and other traumatic and tragic events have occurred, we can't ignore the fact that more people are impacted by trauma and therefore need support.

09:33:32 From Amy B : Great points.

09:33:50 From Megan McDaniel (She/Her) : That vicarious trauma is so real!

09:34:34 From Nicole Coleman- Idaho 988 : we can't fight for behavioral health needs and expect clinicians and helpers to seek help in the shadows.

09:34:42 From Keith Lewis (he/him) : Thank you Christine, Janel and Jessica for addressing a very taboo topic of caregivers which also have needed for replenishing for increased mental wellness. thanks again

09:34:54 From Aaron J. Walker, NASMHPD : Go AI!

09:34:54 From Karen Jones : Want a free 988 Crisis Jam shirt, email me and volunteer to be on the hotseat! Or order your own at <https://shop.hopeinc.com/Products/ProductGrid/988?r=1>

09:41:22 From David Covington : <https://www.samhsa.gov/find-help/988/partner-toolkit/social-media-shareables>

09:41:51 From David Covington : Go to the very bottom "988 Facts" for the popular shareable from last week's Crisis Jam "About 98% of people who contact the 988 Lifeline..."

09:42:36 From David Covington : It's the one: "In fewer than 1% of 988 Lifeline contacts, the crisis counselor must call 911 without consent because of serious risk to life."

09:43:25 From Mary Jean Weston : Love this 1% graphic! Really clarifies the great confusion and misinformation on social media.

09:44:20 From David Covington : Thank you so much Kate for your leadership and SAMHSA's creativity and quick responsiveness... this is a master class... LOVE IT! So many materials here and growing
