09:16:24 From David Covington : Welcome Edita! Glad you're here

09:17:19 From Monica Luke (she series) : In the corrections space are you addressing mental health watch?

09:18:15 From Monica Luke (she series) : and solitary confinement ...

09:19:26 From Anne Janks : Monica, do you mean "mental health watch" where an inmate who states suicidal thoughts is placed in solitary confinement?

09:19:28 From Joanna Rosen, AFSP : We are focusing on solitary confinement; this is a relatively new policy area for us so we're working at the state and federal levels to explore the best legislative solutions to limiting the use of solitary confinement in jails and prisons.

09:21:10 From Joanna Rosen, AFSP : Monica, I don't believe we have anything directly related to mental health watches in jails/prisons at this time, at least on the policy side (Corbin might have more insight into the Project 2025 side)

09:21:41 From Monica Luke (she series) : Mental Health Watch usually means someone has expressed a suicide intention and yes, usually placed in solitary, but with some protocol for being checked on. This is often a traumatic experience and folks are not adequately checked on, so suicides still happen.

Then there is also solitary confinement not related to expressing a mental health/suicide concern. But folks in that situation often become suicidal.

09:21:57 From David Covington : Sarah was the director of the Colorado Office of Suicide Prevention prior to joining the National Action Alliance for Suicide Prevention as director of the Executive Committee - thanks for being here Sarah!

09:22:52 From Monica Luke (she series) : Thanks, Joanna

09:23:23 From Anne Janks : In our county jail, inmates understand that articulating any indication of suicide risk will have immediate negative results. It directly impacts being able to screen for suicidal risk.

09:23:38 From Paige Rusch : So true!!!

09:23:41 From Amy Cohen, PhD (APA) : 4 focus areas for Project 2025: firearms, healthcare systems, EDs, correctional systems

09:27:05 From Tarun Mugunthan : Hi all! This is a request for help from this community!

09:29:19 From Sarah Brummett (she/her) : Is it a sign that I'm too old for this question that I don't know who half these stars are?

09:31:19 From Terrence Smithers : Way to go Will!

09:31:21 From Kristen Ellis, LMFT : Will definitely needs to have his own segment

09:39:05 From David Covington : "Extreme gardening!"

09:40:19 From Karen Jones : From the article...“As humans, we need to feel understood, and this was a connection with people outside of my family. I ate that up like a starving man at Thanksgiving. I was like, ‘Okay, this is what it’s supposed to be like—this is what compassion looks like.’”

09:47:06 From Terrence Smithers : Thanks for that link NAMI Prince William

09:47:26 From Monica Luke (she series) : Has the 988 guidance for children been released by SAMHSA yet? Sorry if I missed it ...

09:48:48 From Mary Giliberti- Mental Health America : Great question Monica. Over 50 organizations sent a letter requesting youth guidance in late August and we have also missed it if issued.

We have a new sheriff, so an opportunity.

09:53:27 From Sarah Blanka OBH : 3 Sarahs is a great showing!

09:54:03 From Monica Luke (she series) : Thanks, John. The kids guidance is a significant missing piece for the work I'm doing on connecting first episode psychosis to 988 and appropriate follow up (evaluation for coordinated specialty care for example). I've heard it will suggest 45 days of follow up for youth/kids.
