

crisistrivia
hotseat

JORDAN PANTALONE

Manager, State
Policy, Vibrant

Psychiatrists Reach Out to Teens of Color

In December, the New York Times highlighted an Atlanta team of Black mental health experts, led by Dr. Sarah Vinson, bringing care to low-income children and teens of color.

The NYT article begins with the impact of workforce shortages in low income communities of color. The crux of the story is the fork in the road caused by the lack of:

A: Accurate diagnosis

B: Timely access to care

C: Best medication(s)

D: Success in school

crisistrivia
hotseat

JORDAN PANTALONE

Manager, State
Policy, Vibrant

‘Disruptive’ or depressed?

Numerous studies have found an imbalance in the frequency Black children are either underdiagnosed or receive harsher diagnoses, with disruptive or aggressive disorders.

The NYT article begins with the impact of workforce shortages in low income communities of color. The crux of the story is the fork in the road caused by the lack of:

A: Accurate diagnosis

B: Timely access to care

C: Best medication(s)

D: Success in school

988
SUICID & CRISIS
LIFELINE

SAMHSA
Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration

NASMHPD

Crisis JAM SESSION

NASMHPD

JANUARY 11th, 2023

JASON FRIESEN

Founder / Executive Director at Trek Medics International

TALK.CRISISNOW.COM

The Challenge
Care that feels like care