

...I landed in the forest which

I decided was my soul, and that for the rest of my life, I would speak bravely, breathe deeply, and cry cathartically. “Thank you, Hope.” I prayed. “Thank you for setting me free.” To which she replied: “Who was the one who decided I exist?”

Quote

