

We're social creatures and couldn't survive ancestrally without each other. That's incidentally why we're so sensitive to feeling left out and feeling like we don't belong. In the ancestral environment, if that happened to you, it was death. It meant death.

~ Dr. Thomas Joiner

Quote